THE AXE TO FALL.

Unless all signs fail the early part of the next fiscal year, which begins July 1st, will see the official guillotine much more actively at work than at any time since March 4 1885 cleaving the necks of Republicans who still hold their positions by the grace of a Democratic Administration. No doubt the recent debate on civil service reform in the House was part of the scheme to pave the way for measures which shall bring to the Democrats the fruition of their hopes in a fuller measure than they have yet enjoyed. There was much plain talk in that debate. The majority of the Dem ocratic members made no concealment of their disgust of the "reform" system. They would gladly repeal the whole business if they could-This not being feasible at present bowever, they advocate radical changes in the rules governing the practical workings of the system that will draw the fancs from the most obnoxious features

A Washington dispatch says: There seems to be little doubt that the President has determined to Saturday, July 3rd, 1886. make some concessions to these clamors He will be less violently addicted to civil service than during the first year of his administration. The claims of party cannot be wholly ignored. He is beginning to realize that they are paramount to those of the Mugwumps. He has abundant evidence of the fact that a yielding in this direction will be hailed with hosantas by Democrats of every degree in all parts of the country, and that he will have the full backing of his party in a more argressive policy with reference to the officers.

In the face of a Republican Senate in session, the President has Chas, W. Reinhart, Vocalist and Pian been slow to make changes for political reasons, but there is good ground for the prevailing belief that the heads will fly right and left after the adjournment. An important political campaign is at hand, and there are alarming symptoms in some dangerous quarters that the party will go to pieces unless he d together by the "cohesive power" of Federal patronage. In the Departments here a feeling of consternation has obtained among Republican officials outside the protection of the Civil Service law. It is apparent to any close observer that their uneasiness is not withour good basis.

BAD FOR DARNES.

For some time past the public has been regaled with the indeterminable row between Tyler and Barnes two attorneys of San Francisco and opposing counsel in the Sharon case. Barnes tried to have Taylor debarred for unprofessional conduct which Barnes had been unquestionably guilty of when he briped Taylor's confidential clerk to give away his master's business.

Barnes failed to score his point and has made another attack on Tyler accusing him of securing an affidavit from a witness who was not of sound mind. But Mammy Pleasance bobs up and testified that after Tyler's indictment on the above charge she was called upon by a man named Williams who. on behalf of F. G. Newlands and W. H L. Barnes, offered to reimburse her from that money she had advanced plaintiff in the Sharon divorce case, and also to raise the mortzage on some of her property if she would testify that Tyler had procured the Clarke affidavit fraudulently. She put Williams off and secreted two witnesses in an adjacant room who heard the offer repeated. Her testimony was corroborated by these two witnesses one was her coachman, J W. Allen and the other, Hugh Mauldin, clerk in a jewelry store of this city.

We should judge that it was high time for Barnes to disprove this or crawl out of sight professionally.

-Since the discussion over the imprepriety of having nude pictures in public art galleries has become so extensive, somebody has proposed to have all the nude pictares set apart in a room by themselves so that those who entered it could prepare themselves before hand to be severely shocked.

This room would need very thorough ventilation as it would be suffocatingly crowded all the time.
